

ProjectManager

with facultative Assessment IAPM™

What requirements do I have to meet?

You should be able to plan, organise, manage and successfully close out a project. You need knowledge in order to keep your head above water. You have to manage your project team on the basis of communication skills and methodical competence, taking into account your special leadership role as project manager. You have to develop excellent project management skills and preferably have them confirmed by external certification.

Alternatively, you have planned, organised, managed and closed out successful projects. You have guided your project teams with communicative and methodical competence, taking into account your special and difficult leadership role as project manager. You have developed from both a personal and a professional perspective. Now you want to obtain external certification of your project management competence.

How do I get started?

The more than 10,000 project managers who have participated in our courses are already successful in their new functions after obtaining a first-rate qualification. Round off your project management competence by taking part in this course and acquire the necessary methodical competence to pass your assessment and obtain certification as Project Manager IAPM™ or Senior Project Manager IAPM™.

What are the entry requirements?

Participants should have a qualification as business administrator, business economist, master craftsman, skilled technician or chartered engineer and should work in projects.

What does the assessment mean for me?

You receive independent confirmation of your competence! The International Association of Project Managers IAPM™ has a certification body which performs project personnel assessments. Depending on the competence attained - in accordance with the internationally recognised IAPM™ Certification System - the following certificates are issued:

Certified Senior Project Manager (IAPM)
Certified Project Manager (IAPM)

Visit the website at www.iapm.net for further information.

What does the course cover?

The course covers the basic principles and methods of project management, the organisation of a project and aspects of cooperation within a project. It provides an intensive preparation for the assessment of IAPM™.

Visit the website at www.ottmann.de for further information.

What methods are used?

This course provides a fast and efficient overview of project management methods and the project management philosophy. We take you through the project, step by step, from planning to successful implementation! We build up a solid foundation for a successful career as project manager, from an understanding of the special requirements of a project manager to self-management competence. We prepare you for the demanding IAPM™ certification.

Our trainers provide the theoretical input and support you in the implementation of a specific transfer project. This project ensures that you are able to transfer project management theory into everyday project management practice. It includes alternating workshops, presentations and discussions which ensure a high level of interaction and intensive exchange between the participants and trainer. They make learning an interesting experience!

Your course materials (including textbook, workbook, photographic documentations) provide you with the theoretical basis for certification. They also, more importantly, provide you with valuable assistance as a reference work in your everyday project management work.

Who are your trainers?

The charismatic and competent trainers at Ottmann & Partner GmbH Management Consulting have decades of experience in their specific field of project management. They are all certified the IAPM™ certification body and know what they are talking about.

In trainer benchmarkings, our trainers have been the highest rated project management trainers since 2001!

Where and when do the courses take place?

Look for a suitable course date on the website at www.ottmann.de.

You can book a hotel, e.g. for a course in Röthenbach an der Pegnitz, at www.avenon.de. The board and accommodation costs are paid directly to the hotel.

What is your investment?

1.940 € plus VAT.

The course fee includes the cost of course materials and a variety of snacks and beverages during the breaks. If you cancel your registration two weeks or more before the course starts, you will not incur any other costs. Please note that we charge a 200 € cancellation fee for later cancellations.

The charge for assessment by IAPM™ depends on the level of certification (Certified Project Manager or Certified Senior Project Manager) and the person's nationality. The fee is payable in advance of the assessment and is not covered by the course fee.

You will receive an invoice for the fee in conjunction with your registration confirmation.
